Court Holds That Point Made in Motion, That Verdict Was Rendered in Defendant's Absence, Should Have Been Raised When New Trial Was Asked

The supreme court of Georgia today afternoon handed down a decision affirming the decision of Judge Benjamin H. Hill in refusing to grant a motion to set aside the verdict in the case of Frank White v. State. The court held that the point made in the motion, that the verdict was rendered in the defendant's absence, should have been raised when a new trial was asked.

In the Wake Of the War With Corey

War has almost ruined industries in Holland, said the manufacturer Corey today in a letter from Amsterdam. Before it started 200 shops entered Rotterdam each week. Now six a week is a large number. Closing of North sea by Great Britain will cause no lessening.

BY HERBERT COREY
(Staff Correspondent of The Journal.)
AMSTERDAM, Nov. 14.—"Come down on the house," said the manufacturer's agent. "Well, see what they have to say about business."
The Amsterdam house is a tremendous red brick structure with purple bricks stuck about here and there. On the ends are what seem to be Assyrian figures. On its two working floors 2,000 men can try and sell with plenty of elbow room.
I've done very well, said the first business man we addressed. "I had a warehouse full of goods when the war broke out and I sold them all at higher prices than I had hoped for."
That seemed to be a proper reason for congratulation.
But, said he, "now the warehouse is empty and no more goods are coming."
That is Holland's position as a state. Her warehouses are being emptied. Very little fresh goods are entering her ports. Before the war 200 steamships entered the port of Rotterdam every week. Now only a few steamships enter a week before they are better.
We expect that England will close the North sea to all traffic, said one of the foremost bankers on the house. "We have been told—indirectly—to anticipate such action."
If the North sea is closed Germany will cease to get the food and munitions of the foremost bankers on the house. Through Dutch sources. That is not important to Germany. It is equally important to the allies who propose to starve Germany as well as meet her in the field. Very little attention seems to have been paid to Holland's plight. It will come mighty near starving us, said one of the foremost bankers on the house.
That is not literally true. Food is beginning to get a bit scarce in Holland now. You find that bread is sold on a breakfast table instead of the crisp rolls to which we have become accustomed. Some commodities are higher in price. Others have disappeared from the market. But the Dutch do not really feel a famine, even if the North sea is completely closed. It can live if only by sucking its thumb—until the war is over.
But if the North sea is closed Belgium will suffer terribly. Every one knows how that little state has been fared. There is hardly a village there that has not been devastated. There is hardly a farm that has not been ruined. Holland is in a serious need. As the season progresses they will progressively need more of course. That help can only come through the North sea or through Holland. If the North sea is closed Holland will have little left to give.
Nevertheless, the matter how those states suffer—it is quite on the cards that the North sea will be closed. Holland as a state is heartily in sympathy with the allies. That here and there in Holland are individuals who may be in sympathy with Germany may merely mean that they are being misled by English investigators that they have been selling contraband.
Many a warehouseman in Amsterdam and Rotterdam who should know better than to deny this charge vigorously.
"I've seen a warehouse full of goods that are badly wanted in Germany," said one of the warehousemen. "I've seen them to sell to Germany. He finds it hard to find a warehouseman in Holland who is not in sympathy with Germany today—especially as they have largely increased in price."
"You know that all his life a man has sold Swiss watches, and he is now selling them to Germany. He is a patriotic citizen and he is not going to let his country be starved."

MAJOR HAS PLAN TO PROTECT HOMES FOR C. T. U. VISITORS

May Ask Finance Committee Monday to Provide Funds If Churches Fail to Raise Needed Sum Sunday

MRS. PATTERSON WINS EXECUTIVE'S SYMPATHY

Head of White Ribboners Moves Mayor With Story of Ministers' Failure to Live Up to Promise

If an appeal to the churches to provide homes for the delegates to the Woman's Christian Temperance union convention falls again Sunday, Mayor James O. Woodard, who proposed the plan, will probably call on the finance committee Monday to provide funds to maintain 272 delegates during the remainder of the session.

Mrs. T. E. Patterson drew a picture of the homeless delegates Saturday which gained the sympathy of the mayor, and he secured the ministers of the city for the job of settling homes for the women, a task to which they are alleged to have twice committed themselves.

GIVES INSIDE HISTORY

In her talk to the mayor, Mrs. Patterson gave the executive a little inside history of the why and the wherefore of the failure of the churches to provide a sufficient number of homes. It is said that the anxiety of a number of preachers has been gained by the temperance union because of the fact that a good number of the members of the temperance union are also ardent exponents of the cause of woman's suffrage. For that reason, it is alleged, one of the denominations has refused to provide a home.

Mrs. Patterson, in a statement to reporters, did not go into the political phase of the situation, but merely stated that the churches had failed to live up to their promise to provide homes for a good part of the 272 delegates who are now without them the situation will be saved," she said.

"We expect to expect more than 700 delegates and as a matter of fact we now have accredited in the convention more than 1,200, so naturally we are experiencing trouble. This is the largest group of delegates that has ever been in the city."

"As a result, unless the people of the city open their homes more freely to the city comes to the rescue, some of our citizens will have to return to their homes."

In her statement to reporters, Mrs. Patterson was careful to place the blame on no one's shoulders, but she talked with confidence for freedom of the ministers' protest and assurance of their co-operation. The present situation has resulted.

"I am willing to dig down in my own pocket, now," said the mayor, "for any other assistance that I can give to help to save the name of the city for hospitality."

The mayor did not state positively that he would call the finance committee into session, but he did say that he knew that this course will be followed if necessary.

The mayor referred to his speech of welcome to the delegates, in which he said they have no place in the "better babies" contest which the Georgia branch of the National Congress of Mothers is conducting at the Baptist Tabernacle.

So declared Atlanta physicians Saturday morning in referring to the case of John Miller, a 10-year-old boy, who had been suffering from a severe case of diphtheria. The boy had been in the hospital for several days, and the physicians had been unable to cure him. The boy's mother, Mrs. Miller, had been told by the physicians that the boy would not survive. War News Conflicting; Very Little Progress Shown

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Rumors of disaster to the British super-dreadnaught Audacious, which has persisted ever since the White Star liner Olympic, diverted from her course, arrived at Lough Swilly on October 29, are confirmed in mail advice received today by the Associated Press from a point in Ireland.

After a career of less than two years the Audacious of the King George V class built in tonnage and armament of his majesty's warships—lies at the bottom of the sea off the north coast of Ireland. She was hit by a torpedo or disabled by a mine just before 9 o'clock on the morning of October 27, and the possible exception of one or two men the whole crew of 500 officers and men had been transferred from the Olympic.

The rescue was made in a rough sea through gullies and during darkness on the part of the White Star crew. The men were rescued by assistance was caught by the wireless operator of the Olympic which was only about ten miles away. COTTON FOR JAPAN IS SHIPPED THROUGH CANAL

Saved $5,060 on the Trip

Yokohama, laden with 3,276 bales of cotton, was bound for Panama. The use of the canal the steamer saved 5,280 nautical miles. The canal record is that the time saved at 25 days was $2,060 on the outward voyage alone. Tolls amounting to more than $4,000 would have been levied had the steamer been forced to go around Cape Horn. The charges would have been levied had she gone via the Ruez canal, and the money would have been paid to the Panama route might have been selected. It was stated, a balance in favor of the Panama canal would have been shown.

Since cotton exported to Japan in 1918 was valued at $25,573,054 and previous years had been valued at $20,000,000 with that country in 1914, officials believe the saving to carriers by the Panama canal would be $5,000,000 on the entire shipment hereafter through the canal.

Proposal to Pay for City's Share of Certain Street
Work Is Accepted

The street committee of council vo

ed Friday afternoon to accept the proposal of citizens to pay the city's private share for work on Boulevard Du Kalb and Lake avenue by the stockaded gang, so that the department can be kept at work while the mayor and the aldermanic board are settling the differences.

Members of the street committee said that it will not be necessary to secure council's ratification of the action.

The aldermanic board recently held up a resolution putting the finance of the city in the mayor's control to the remainder of the year, and because there was a deficit for the public works department of about $8,000 in the regular finance sheet, it was feared that 150 of the employees might lose their jobs and the prisoners remain idle in the barracks.

Logansport, Ind. — "My baby was over a year old and I labored till I was nearly dead from a burden to my back."

told my husband to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I would try it before I would submit to any operation. He did so and I improved right along. I am now doing all my work and feeling fine.

"I hope other suffering women will try your Compound. I will recommend it to all I know."

—MRS. E. D. B. DAVIS, 116 Fremont St., St. Louis, Mo.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine,
not fair to suppose that if Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham
